Request for Proposals:
Organizational Development, Strategy
and Management Consultant

Overview:

The Public Health Institute (PHI) – an independent, nonprofit organization dedicated to advancing well-being and health equity with communities around the world – is seeking to retain the services of an experienced organizational development consultant. The consultant will work with PHI’s senior leadership team to adapt to a rapidly changing environment and organizational growth through both strengthening the leadership and management teams and organizational structure to achieve our highest potential impact as an organization. The objective of the work is to 1) support improved communications and build more effective team collaboration in a rapidly changing environment; and 2) identify and support the implementation of strategies that promote the effective execution of PHI’s 2021-2024 Strategic Framework.

Background:

Over the past two years, PHI has undergone significant change and growth, doubling in size, both in terms of revenue and staff, and expanding our portfolio of programs, most notably in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. At the same time, PHI’s senior leadership and management teams have undergone significant transition, with new executive staff and management across areas of critical business function. These significant shifts have taken place at a time when the organization’s central administrative office has moved to almost fully remote operations. Staffing has also shifted from a primarily Oakland, California based team (with some staff in Sacramento) to the reality today where our central administrative staff are located in over 30 U.S. states.

As with any significant organizational transitions, these changes have presented challenges and opportunities. PHI is committed to identifying strategies, tools and approaches that can enhance and promote internal collaboration and communication among our executive leadership team to create a maximally effective team that brings commitment to achieving our mission and creating a culture of joy in our work.

This will be a two-phase project: (1) organization review and leadership and business alignment, (2) implementation plan and support.

PHI may issue an Indefinite Quantity Contract (IQC) to the successful proposer from this procurement process. PHI will, at its sole discretion, negotiate, award, or not award an IQC to any qualified respondent PHI deems qualified, responsible, and capable of providing the resources and services as outlined in the Project Description.
